ABOUT NAGPUR

Nagpur is the third largest city and winter capital of the Indian state of Maharashtra and has been proposed as one of the Smart Cities. It is the seat of the annual winter session of the Maharashtra state assembly. It is a major commercial and political centre of the Vidarbha region of Maharashtra. In addition, the city is an important location for Deekshabhoomi, where Dr. B. R. Ambedkar embraced Buddhism in the year 1956 alongwith his massive followers. It is famous for oranges and hence known as the Orange City for being a major trade center of oranges cultivated in the region.

The city was founded in 1703 by the Gond King Bakht Buland Shah of Deogarh and later became a part of the Maratha Empire under the royal Bhonsale dynasty. The British East India Company took over Nagpur in the 19th century and made it the capital of the Central Provinces and Berar. After the first reorganisation of states, the city lost its status as the capital. Following the informal Nagpur Pact between political leaders, it was made the second capital of Maharashtra.

BRIEF NOTE ON CONFERENCE

On the occasion of 61st year of the establishment, the department is organising this celebratory Multidisciplinary International Conference. Globalisation has succeeded in sustaining economic growth of the countries and creating opportunities for the economies but empirical evidence suggest that it has been accompanied with stagnant poverty, environmental degradation, economic inequalities, lower employment opportunities and lopsided world development. Sustainable and inclusive globalisation aims at focusing on people’s livelihoods and improved quality of life outcomes.

World Bank has recognised this paradox and now envisions an inclusive and sustainable globalization – to overcome poverty, enhance growth with care for the environment and creating individual opportunity and hope.

An indicative but not exhaustive list of tracks under which a paper can be submitted/ presented is given below:

1. Globalisation and SDGs.
2. Globalisation: Content and Discontent
3. Impact of Globalisation on Rural Communities
4. Globalisation and Inclusion: Need and Challenges

5. Social, Economic and Environmental dimensions of Globalisation.
6. Impact of Globalization of Technology on Businesses and Economy.
7. Rise and Decline of Globalisation and its impact.
8. Any other related theme.

This multidisciplinary international conference aims to provide a forum for discussion on these issues that shall make all the stakeholders aware of the need, challenges and scope for directing globalisation to be sustainable and inclusive. The conference aims to bring together academicians, industry and general public to understand the dynamics of all this and share their opinion and experiences.

Well researched papers are invited from academicians, practitioners, researchers, scholars and students on the above mentioned themes. Full paper of not more than 2000 words should be submitted by 5th January 2020. All papers should include an abstract of about 150 -200 words.
